

Lincluden

16 February 1931 – August 1989

Details

Lincluden was opened as part of the Burnside Presbyterian Orphan Homes on 16 February 1931 at North Parramatta. It had been the home of Sir James Burn, founder of Burnside, and had been known as 'Gowan Brae'. Lincluden was a girls' home until 1952 then was staff quarters until 1962 when it was used as respite care for children whose mothers were in hospital. It was closed and sold in 1989.

Lincluden, along with the other Burnside Presbyterian Orphan Homes for Children, was evacuated for the duration of World War II. Lincluden served as Officer's Mess for Australian Army.
