

Karril Cottage

c. 1973 – c. 1989

Details

Karril Cottage was a government-run Home for school-aged boys and girls. It had opened by 1973 and was located in the suburb of Kellyville. Karril Cottage closed in the late 1980s.

Although a NSW government guide to records, Connecting Kin (1998), stated that Karril Cottage was a boy's Home, it was a Home for boys and girls. Boyle (1996) refers to 14 girls coming to Karril Cottage from Thornbury Lodge in 1973. Emails from former residents to the Find & Connect resource also confirm that girls and boys lived at Karril Cottage in the 1970s and early 1980s. A newspaper article from 2005 refers to Karril Cottage being "a boys' home in Kellyville in the late 1980s" (Sydney Morning Herald, 24 November 2005).

In 2006 a former private music teacher who taught boys from Karril Cottage was convicted of sexually abusing students, including at least one from Karril Cottage.
