Details

The Dominican Sisters of Eastern Australia is a Catholic women's religious order. In 1867, representatives of an Irish Dominican community founded an autonomous eastern Australian congregation initially based in Maitland, New South Wales (Hellwig, 2020). The Dominican Sisters ran the School for Deaf Girls at Waratah in New South Wales (established 1886), and St Mary's School for the Deaf in Victoria (c.1948 to 1985).
