

Hillcrest Hospital

1964 – 1994

Details

The Hillcrest Hospital was the new name given to the Northfield Mental Hospital in 1964. Run by the government it provided mental health services for inpatients, outpatients and day patients including children, some of whom were State children. In 1979-82 patients from Enfield Hospital were transferred to Hillcrest. The Hillcrest Hospital closed in 1994.

The Hillcrest Hospital was the new name given to the Northfield Mental Hospital in 1964. It provided mental health services for inpatients, outpatients and day patients, as well as community services for the acute and chronically mentally ill, elderly patients suffering from dementia and related illnesses and people with alcohol dependence problems. Children, including some State children, continued to be sent to Hillcrest Hospital.

On 1st July, 1979, Enfield Hospital was incorporated with Hillcrest Hospital. Both Hospitals came under the control of a single board of management. By 1982 all Enfield Hospital patients had been transferred to Hillcrest.

In 1991 the Hospital was operating 370 beds and was also responsible for the administration of the Northfield Security Hospital and a rehabilitation hostel at College Park.

Hillcrest Hospital closed in 1994.

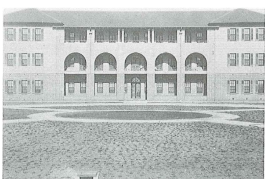

Gallery

Two nurses with a young girl at Northfield Mental Hospital, South Australia

A woman standing barefoot outside Northfield Mental Hospital, South Australia

Administration Block, 1935

Description: This image shows Hillcrest Hospital Administration Block.

More info

Chronology

- Northfield Mental Hospital (1929 - 1964)
 - Hillcrest Hospital (1964 – 1994)

Related Entries

Run by

- Hospitals Department, State Government of South Australia \(1940 - 1978\)
- Health Commission, State Government of South Australia \(1978 - 2008\)

Related Organisations

- Enfield Hospital \(1963 - 1982\)

When Enfield Hospital closed the remaining patients were transferred to Hillcrest Hospital

Resources

- Dowdell, Andrew, Mental Scars Spark Action, The Advertiser, 24 March 2012

You can view this page online by visiting <https://www.findandconnect.gov.au/entity/hillcrest-hospital-2/>