

Family Court of Western Australia

1976 –

Details

The Family Court of Western Australia is responsible for approving adoptions in this State, a role which it took over from the Supreme Court in 1976. The Family Court holds records relating to adoption dating back to the 1890s. These records are released via officers at Past Adoption and Information Services within Child Protection and Family Support, Department of Communities.

More info

Related Entries

Related Organisations

- Adoption Services, Child Protection and Family Support \(1994? - current\)

Past Adoptions Information and Services should be contacted for access to records of adoption held by the Family Court of Western Australia.

Related Concepts

- Adoption in Western Australia \(c. 1896 - current\)

The Family Court of Western Australia is responsible for approving adoptions.

You can view this page online by visiting <https://www.findandconnect.gov.au/entity/family-court-of-western-australia/>