Details

The Garden Point Resource Centre was the name given to a meeting place for Aboriginal people who had lived at the Garden Point and other Catholic Missions in the Northern Territory. Located at the Roman Catholic, Diocese of Darwin offices, the Centre referred Aboriginal people in search of records to the Diocesan Archivist. In the past it was sometimes mistakenly referred to as a record holding organisation. All records related to Catholic missions and institutions in the Northern Territory are held by the Roman Catholic Church, Diocese of Darwin.
