Details

The Roman Catholic Church, Diocese of Darwin holds extensive records relating to the care of children in the Northern Territory. These include records related to a number of Catholic mission stations, residential care facilities, schools and other services for children. The Diocese holds a collection of baptismal records dating from the 1880s and is the repository for the Garden Point Collection, which relates to the Garden Point Mission and other mission stations and institutions. A small number of the records relating to Garden Point Mission have been listed and described. The Diocese can also provide advice about records of Jesuit Missions held in South Australia.
