

Warrawillah Seaside Holiday Home for Girls

1956 – 1976

Details

Warrawillah Seaside Holiday Home for Girls was opened by Church of England Homes at Collaroy on the 6th October 1956. It was used to provide holidays to girls living at the Church of England Girl's Home at Carlingford. Warrawillah closed in 1976 due to the poor condition of the building, and the effects of beach erosion on the property.

Warrawillah - Collaroy

Description: This is a photo of the Warrawillah seaside holiday home for girls run by the Church of England at Collaroy (also called Narrabeen). It shows a small weatherboard cottage behind a white wooden fence, with a large tree in the front yard. There is a sign in front of the house that reads "Warrawillah Seaside Holiday Home for Girls of the Church of England Homes Carlingford". The photo has been captioned by Anglicare with "Warrawillah - our seaside holiday home for our girls. Situated on the ocean front at North Narrabeen". This photo is undated - the date included is an estimate.
